- (54) Data Processing System for Providing Business Continuity Protection
- (57) The present invention relates to a data processing system providing service continuity protection, comprising: a service center, comprising a first data processing unit, a first front-end communications unit, and at least one first rear-end communications unit; a disaster recovery center, comprising a second data processing unit, a second front-end communications unit, and at least one second rear-end communications unit; when the service center is operating normally, the first front-end communications unit and second front-end communications unit are coupled in communication with the first rear-end communications unit; when the disaster recovery center operates instead of the service center, the first front-end communications unit and second front-end communications unit are coupled in communication with the second rear-end communications unit; the invention switches reliably between the service center and the disaster recovery center, providing improved service continuity protection. Furthermore, the data processing system conserves network overhead, reduces development and operation/maintenance costs, and enables rapid switching between operating states..

The monitoring system includes a monitoring control device, an image 5 information providing device, and a client control device. The monitoring control device monitors infrastructure facilities and transmits statuses of the infrastructure facilities acquired on the basis of information input from a sensor to the image information providing device. The image information providing device generates original image information on the basis of the infrastructure facility statuses received 10 from the monitoring control device. The client control device is connected to a display device and an operation device, receives information for designating a partial area of an entire image capable of being generated from the original image information from the operation device, transmits the received information to the image information providing 15 device, and displays an image based on information received from the image information providing device on the display device..

(54) STRUCTURALSTEEL MATERIAL AND STRUCTURE

(57) he purpose of the present invention is to provide a structural steel material: with which it is possible to reduce painting frequency even when used in an atmospheric corrosive environment, especially when used in a severe corrosive environment in which there is a large amount of airborne salt, such as at sea, in the vicinity of a coast, etc.; and that exhibits good primary rust resistance, superior paint corrosion resistance, and superior lamellar tear resistance when being employed in a large complex structure such as a bridge. The structural steel material of the present invention has a predetermined composition and has a degree of Sn segregation that is set to 20 or less..
